DOMESTIC NEWS. The Forty-eighth Congress.

SENATE. Washington, December 20th. — Cullem intro-uced a bill to establish a Board of Railroad Com nissioners and regulate interetate commerce.

Van Wyck's resolution of yesterday, calling be Secretary of the Interior for information of late Secretary of the Interior for information con-cerning lands granted to railroads, came up.

Ingalls said he had no objection to the resolution proper, but he objected to the preamble as tending to commit the Senate to an interpretation of a de-cision of the Supreme Court.

Van Wyck insisted that his preamble was correct. van Wyck insisted that his preamble was correct.
In the course of the debate he referred to the opinion of Attorney-General Devens and Justice Harlan on the same subject, and criticised the opinions as well as the practice of the General Land Office in following the law laid down by those opinions rather than by the Suprems Court of the United

following the law laid down by those opinions rather than by the Supreme Court of the United States.

Replying to a question by Allison in regard to Justice Harlan's opinion, Van Wyck said that strange, indeed marvelous things had taken place in the Supreme Court, as well as the land department of the Government, in reference to the public lands. He (Van Wyck) thought the Senator from Iowa (Allison) would concede that fact at least. There is abundant evidence of it in Allison's Staie, and in the sufferings of its people, by the depreciation of the superintendent of the dining car between the superintendent of the superintendent of the dining car between the superintendent of the car had proceeded two squares he died. A physician who arrived before he expired two squares he died. A physician who arrived before he expired two squares he died. A physician who arrived before he expired two squares he died. A physician who arrived before he expired two squa There is abundant evidence of it in Allison's State, and in the sufferings of its people, by the depreciation of their property. Millions of acres of the oublic domain had been given to railroads, Van Wyck said, before the Supreme Court decision referred to, which they were not entitled to under the decision, and although for a time the General Land Office followed that decision, it finally followed the opinion of Attorney-General Devens and Justice Harlan. This course Van Wyck censured.

The discussion closed by the insertion in the preamble of the words "it is alleged," so as not to commit the Senate to any special interpretation of the Supreme Court decision.

So amended, Van Wyck's resolution was agreed to. The Senate went into executive session, and on repening resumed consideration of the new rules at after a short debate the matter was postponed out after a snort decate the matter was postponed until after the holiday recess.

The Chair laid before the Scnate a communication from the Secretary of the Interior, transmitting copies of papers relating to the attempt to transfer the Texas Pacific Railroad Company's land grant to the Southern Pacific Railway Company, of Arizona, New M. xico and California. The Secretary concludes his communication with the statement that

He stated that the increased membership fully met the views of the Speaker. The resolution was adopted.

With their stolen funds they proceeded, as they admitted in Court, to a five cent beer saloon—the Fredericksburg—on K street, between Fifth and Sixth, and spent $3 of it for beer. They had been allowed to frequent this place before, and it was for the purpose of getting funds to buy beer that they committed the theft. After drinking until they became somewhat intoxicated they returned to the butcher shop and stole the balance of the money, and afterwards buried it under the I-street bridge, on the banks of China slough. Mr. Henry maintained that while our idea of God is not innate, nevertheless the continuous tion room, the study and the school chapel, vividly portrayed. The reforms effected at Rugby by Arnold, the lecturer said, were five: Diminution of punishment, extension of the course of study, restraint of "fagging," corresponding to the subjective perceptions of the soul. He also showed very clearly that a man who should reject God because he is incomprehensible must for the same reason recomprehensible must fo comprehensible must for the same reason reject every object in the universe, and thus land himself in universal skepticism. A about, i. e., making the older boys his allies land himself in universal skepticism. A man who believes only what he can comprehend must necessarily have a very short creed, in fact, no creed at all, for he cannot comprehend anything. Moreover, the comprehensible is not an object of belief, but of knowledge. Man would certainly reject a God whom he could comprehend as unworthy a moment's adoration. The very incomprehensibility of God is therefore a ground of belief.

Mr. Davis and others offered some critical comprehends of the country. In conclusion the lecturer said:

There are many at the age of thirty to sixty who are troubled with too frequent evacuation of the bladder, often accompanied by a slight smarting or nurning sensation, and a weakening of the system in a manner the patient cannot account for. On examining the urinary deposits a ropy sediment will often be found, and sometimes small particles of albumen will appear, or the color will be of a thin mifkish bue, again changing to a dark and torpid appearance. There are many men who die of this difficulty, ignorant of the cause, which is the second stage of seminal weakness. Dr. S. will guarantee a perfect cure in all such cases, and a

MR. FOOTE'S CONNECTION WITH THE CASE.

Under date of September 29, 1883, he received a communication from the New York law firm of allow, Talmage & Allen, asking him to prosecute a suit against Mrs. Ellen Colton, widow of the late David Daniel Colton, to force her to fulfill the terms of her deceased husband's will, in so far as the complainants were concerned. The letter was an ordinary business letter, and contained the request the papers forwarded and notify Allen, Talmage & Complainants were concerned. The letter was an ordinary business letter, and contained the request the papers forwarded and notify Allen, Talmage & Complainants were concerned. The letter was an ordinary business letter, and contained the request the papers forwarded and notify Allen, Talmage & Co. at once. In case he wished to act, a moderate retainer was offered, and he was asked to name what contingent fee he would accept. Mr. Foote could not act, a moderate retainer and stating that any reasonable percentage of the amount recovered would meet his views. Substantially and the paper of MR. FOOTE'S CONNECTION WITH THE CASE. the amoun's recovered would meet his views. Subsequently he wrote Talmage & Co. that Mrs. Ellen Colton was engaged in a lawsuit with the Central Pacific, which he believed would be compromised, and if she was successful he had no doubt that she would make a liberal settlement of the claim he had undertaken to prosecute. He advised no haste in pushing the claim. Before this letter reached New York, Allen, Talmage & Co. sent a telegram, requesting him to file the complaints at once, take copies thereof and notify them by telegraph. In a morning paper Mr. Foote had seen a statement from one of Mrs. Colton's attorneys, intimating that the suit brought by the Eastern Coltons was put up by the suggestion of C. P. Huntington, for the purpose of harassing Mrs. Ellen Colton. This suggestion grieved Mr. Foote. It placed him in an improper position. As an opponent of the railroad, and a Railroad Commissioner, he could not and would not accept any business from them, or any business with which they were connected. If any one intimated that he knew, or even suspected, that Huntington was behind the Colton suit, they did hun a great injustice. He took up the case of these two poor women in the ordinary course of a lawyer's business, and if he thought that Huntington was behind the case he would throw it up in an instant. All he knew of the merits of the case was in the complaints sworn to by Mrs. and Miss Colton, a copy of which the reporter could peruse at his leisure in the United States Court. He had written to Allen, Talmage & Co. asking if any member of the railroad company had in any way influenced his being asked to take charge of the suit. If so, he wished to withdraw from the case at once, and return the retainer. combated by scientific medical measures, viz: Sallow countenance, dark spots under the eyes, pain in the head, ringing in the ears, noise like the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots, uneasiness about the loins, weakness of the limbs, confused vision, blunted intellect, loss of confidence, diffidence in approaching strangers, a dislike to form new acquaintances, disposition to shun society, loss of memory, heetic flushes, pimples and various cruptions about the face, furred tongue, fetid breath, coughs, consumption, night sweats, monomania and frequently insanity. requently insanity.

THE COMPLAINTS.

This case of Colton vs. Colton has attracted considerable public attention, yet so far but brief mention has been made of the facts. Such information as is available for publication all comes from the two sworn complaints filed in the United States Circuit Court. The first complaint is sworn to by Mrs. Abigail R. Colton, a poor old bed-ridden woman, now residing in the State of New York. After reciting the fact that the late General Colton was her son by her own deceased husband, issac Colton, she states that when her son David died his will contained the following clause, and appends a copy of the will in proof thereof:

"I recommend to her (his wife, Ellen Colton,) the care and protection of my mother and sister, and request her to make such gift and provision for them as in her judgment may be best. I also request my dear wife to make such provision for my daughter. Helen, wife of Chittenden Thoroton, and Carrie, as she may in her love for them choose to exercise."

Says the old lady in her complaint, which almost sears above its dull legal vorbiage to real elequence in voicing her wrongs and sufferings, "the wife of my dear son has utterly failed, neglected and refused to make proper provision for me."

in San Francisco, reveling in all the luxuries that money can buy, fire horses, carriages, servants, and surrounded by friends and relatives, had obeyed the request of her dead husband to take care of his poor old mother and sister in a manner evidently very satisfactory to them. The second complaint continues:

"Mrs. Ellen Colton's estate is worth fully a million dollars, yet in spite of this vastssum being at her absolute disposal, Mrs. Helen Cotton has utterly failed, neglected and refused to make any gift or provision whatever, except as herein set forth: On March 1, 1880, 850, and from that date until January 1, 1881, sums of $50 at intervals, the first of the control of the cont ix bottles, $10. THE DAUGHTER'S COMPLAINT.

The complaint sworn to by Miss Martha Colton, sister of the late David D. Colton, is, if possible, a still stronger appeal to one's feelings of humanity than the charge of her mother. After reciting the same facts of relationship and bequest as her mother, she says in set terms:

"I have not a cent in the world, and am absolutely dependent upon my mother's bounty, and why? Because years ago, when David Colton was poor, his father put his whole estate into money and loaned every cent of it—$15,900—to help his son David become a rich man and the bequeather of a million. No security was taken but a personal note, which was received in 1873, and when the father died this money was returned to the mother, Martha, the daughter, at the request of her brother David, relinquishing the interest she had in it by distance of her right of succession, her father having the stranger of the late David Described.
